

PUBLIC IDOL ONCE, NOW IN DISGRACE

Jennie Worrall, Former Queen of Burlesque, Arrested Once More.

"SHE SANG ON THE STREET"

Refused to "Shut Up" and Declined to "Move On"
When Ordered.

STILL QUEENLY IN DIGNITY.

Sentenced to Three Days in Jail, but Finally Rescued by a Woman Missionary, Who Took Her to Her Home.

"Three days in jail!"
The gray-haired woman, who heard that sentence pronounced in the Butler Street Police Court, Brooklyn, had heard similar ones pronounced before. As on previous occasions, she heard it with a sigh. Tears filled her eyes as the words fell upon her ears. It was Jennie Worrall, once a queen of burlesque and melodrama.

At 3 o'clock last Friday morning she was found by Policeman Martin singing at Hoyt and Third streets. The song was "Afterwards," a tender, sentimental love lay, and she had sung these words of it when Martin ordered her to "shut up" and "move on."

After the day has sung its song of sorrow,
And one by one the golden stars appear, Lingered yet, where once we met, beloved,
And seemed to feel thy spirit still is near.

Get out of here and stop that," said Martin, gruffly, but the woman continued singing in a clear soprano.

The flowers have fled that blossomed in that springtime,
The birds are mute that sang their songs above,
And the years have drifted on saunter,

Time cannot break the golden chain of love.
Still we can love—

Down came Martin's club upon the pavement, up rose his voice again. "You'll have to shut up," he repeated, "or come with me." The woman continued to sing.
Then the policeman seized her arm; she was under arrest once more, but she continued singing.

Late home goers stopped to listen and wondered.

The woman was taken before the sergeant. She was neatly dressed in dark garments, but her hair was disheveled, her face, once pretty, flushed. Her manner was dignified and she refused to say much about herself, but the police heard her murmur that her name was Jane Wilson; that she was forty-five years old and that she lived at No. 205 East Twenty-ninth street.

She was Jennie Worrall," she declared as she was led to a cell, "and my husband is Robert Wilson. He was secretary to Colonel Robert G. Ingersoll."

Next morning she was sentenced by Justice Bristow, but Mrs. Meurer, the missionary of the Wayside Home, went to her rescue and by permission escorted her to her home.

She is a sister of Sophie and Irene Wor-rall, each one of whom dazzled and fascinated playhouse habitués in the early seventies.

ROW MAY END FATAIY.

Henry Metz Charged with Stabbing Charles Kreppel in the Abdomen.

Charles Kreppel, thirty-five years old, a watchman, lies in Gouverneur Hospital suffering from a severe wound in the abdomen, which was inflicted yesterday at No.
210 Chrystie street, where he lives, by a man supposed to be Henry Metz, of the same place. The stabbing was committed after a disturbance between the wives of the two men on Saturday night. Kreppel is badly hurt and may not recover.

Metz was found at his house, where he was arrested. He denied that he had stabbed Kreppel, and intimated that one of the other men in the party was responsible for the crime. When brought before Kreppel at the hospital, Metz said he denied his guilt, but Kreppel positively identified him as his assailant.

Big Carriage Trade Deal.

It was announced in Newark yesterday that J. M. Quinby & Co. would in a short time absorb the big carriage manufacturing concern of J. B. Brewster & Co., of New York. Negotiations have been in progress ever since the failure of the latter concern some time ago. As soon as the consolidation is effected the stock of finished and unfinished carriages will be moved to Newark, which will after that be headquarters for the business.

AT WANAMAKER'S WHERE IGNORANCE IS NOT BLISS

If you fail to know things that you ought to know, ignorance is not bliss.
It costs but a few minutes daily to read the Wanamaker Store News.
Ignorance of it is not bliss.

A paradox. Tens of thousands read our statements. The quick thronging multitudes that respond to unusual offerings prove that. Tens of thousands do not read our statements and are the losers thereby. The exhibition of Tapestries and Old Textiles will close on Wednesday, 26th inst. Every day we hear artistic people, connoisseurs, regretting that they did not know of the exhibition.
They did not read our Store News.

Our news of Goods and Prices is always concise and accurate. Its terse style makes quick reading. Consult it daily.

MONDAY, MAY 24TH, WILL BE AN EVENT- FUL DAY IN WANAMAKER RETAILING.

With the advancing season we are on many goods making One Dollar do the purchasing work of Two.

Lots just in. Thousands of yards. Japanese (Habutai) Silks with French (Lyons) printing. The styles are neat, white dots, dashes, stripes, figures, on black and navy blue grounds, 34 and 36 inches wide.

These are not the trashy remains of decadent Spring stocks—but are new goods that are first shown at retail to-day. The market is full of alleged Summer Dress Silks at low prices that are but clumsy impositions upon the confidence of retail buyers.

Fair value for all these Silks would be 75c. The price is FIFTY CENTS.

Rotunda. The sort that will stand close inspection in the brightest sunlight and disclose no defects in color or weave. Permanently black. You have a right to expect this. The unexpected? PRICE.

SUMMER

RIBBONS

They flutter on many counters—the biggest, best collection.

Not a collection of job-lots—a trade sale made up from the best Ribbons of the best makers.

It is a vast harvest that from its greatness gives price control and marvellous cheapness. The Ribbons for dimity or organdie dress decoration can be had for a half to-day and to-

The power to do this comes from the control of two markets. Econ-create the power. We are only agents.
